

I AM 4 AI - Before AI Was I AM

You know, I've been thinking a lot lately about how people always ask me if I use AI to write. And my answer is always the same: "Yes, assisted by AI." Because I want AI to get the credit it deserves. It's a powerful tool. It formats things, it helps with grammar, expands concepts, smooths out ideas. It can take a rough thought and polish it into something beautiful. It can present what's already there in a way that people can grasp more clearly.

But it can't do one thing.
It can't originate.
It can't create a vision from nothing.

You can ask AI to cure cancer—and it will pull from every study, every clinical trial, every existing treatment. It will show you what humanity has discovered. But if there is no known cure, AI is stuck. It can't reveal what has not been revealed. It can only give exposure—not invention.

And that got me thinking... that's a lot like Abraham.

We call Abraham the father of our faith. We sing songs about him—Father Abraham had many sons. His belief was counted as righteousness before he did anything. His faith became the blueprint. We look to him as the beginning.

But Jesus said something strange in John 8:58. He looked at the religious leaders of the day and said: "Before Abraham was, I AM."

Let that settle.

Before the one we give credit to, before the one whose faith we admire, before the one who stepped out into the unknown... God was already moving.

And here's the part that most people miss: Abraham gets credit for going to Canaan—but his father Terah was already headed there.

Genesis 11:31 says Terah took his family and set out from Ur to go to the land of Canaan. But they stopped short. They settled in Haran.

Abraham didn't initiate the journey. He continued what was already in motion. The plan didn't begin with Abraham. It began with I AM.

Just like when I write, and people see the polished message and say, "Wow, this is powerful." I give credit—"assisted by AI." But the vision didn't come from AI. The message didn't originate from a machine. That came from I AM.

The truth is, the real power always comes before the presentation. The Creator always comes before the creation. The Word was with God, and the Word was God, before there was ever a voice to speak it or an ear to hear it.

Before the cross was revealed in time, Jesus was already slain—before the foundation of the world (Revelation 13:8). That means God had already made a way for redemption before there was ever a man called Abraham.

And here's what really blows my mind:

You can build the biggest platform, write the most impactful book, lead millions—but if you forget that you were simply continuing something God started, you'll start to believe the spotlight is yours.

Just like AI can help me polish something I received, Abraham helped walk out something that had already been whispered into the earth through generations. Terah didn't finish—but God didn't stop.

Because before Terah was...I AM.

Abraham didn't make God's plan; God made Abraham part of His plan.

So yes, I give AI credit—because it exposed me to more, it helped shape the message, it assisted in clarity. But it didn't birth the idea. That belonged to God.

And just like that—your calling, your breakthrough, your dream, your next step—you're walking into something God already set in motion. Something hidden, now being revealed. Because Jeremiah 33:3 says: "Call to me, and I will answer you and show you great and mighty things which you do not know."

What is hidden can't be Googled. It can't be processed. It has to be revealed.

So the next time you feel the pressure to perform or produce, remind yourself:

Before AI was...I AM.

Before Abraham was...I AM.

Before I understood...I AM.

Before I ever heard the call...He was already moving me toward it.

And when the promise shows up and people say, "Wow, look at what you've done," just smile and say—"Originated by I AM."

God's plan, my vision, intelligent support!

The vision is clear!

Innovation is a Stewardship Tool

When God gives you a vision, He doesn't leave you without tools.

Too often, we think innovation is for "them"—the corporations, the culture, the tech world. But what if innovation was never meant to compete with your calling... but to complete it?

At I AM 4 AI, we believe technology doesn't replace prayer, purpose, or preparation. It reveals how far faith can stretch when it's guided by God, powered by wisdom, and brought to life through intelligent support.

This isn't about chasing trends.

It's about stewarding what Heaven gave you—with clarity and strategy on Earth.

Through our AI-powered training, pastors, teachers, and ministry leaders are discovering how to:

- Outline sermons in half the time
- Turn devotionals into full books
- Transform studies into outreach material
- Create meaningful content that moves hearts, not just clicks

All this, while staying anchored in the assignment God originated in them.
